Narrative

Sir, Upon our arrival, I observed a black male standing close to a black female, who was later identified as Fisayo Odewole. The black male, who was later identified as Matthew Ajibade, had placed a white blanket over their heads, in an effort to conceal his identity, while I approached by vehicle. Mr. Ajibade had held onto the victim tightly. The blanket was removed by the victim. I noticed that Ms. Odewole's face was bruised, and her nose was bleeding. While myself and APO. Baker approached the two, I told Mr. Ajibade to release Ms. Odewole, he refused, and continued to resist after several commands were given. I then tried to pull the two apart. Mr. Ajibade started to resist apprehension in a violent manner, and was taken to the ground, so that he could be handcuffed. While on the ground, he continued to resist, prior to placing the handcuffs on him. This apprehension took place at 1115 Abercorn St., in a convenient store's parking lot.

Sergeants T. Wilson, and S. Young, were the supervisors who responded to the incident. EMS was requested to the scene. Ms. Odewole had refused treatment. Mr. Ajibade was not injured, and refused treatment as well.

Ms. Odewole could not give me a reason why Mr. Ajibade attacked her, other than he was acting strange throughout the day. APO. Baker advised me that Mr. Ajibade uttered that he attacked her for having an affair with an unidentified person. Mr. Ajibade was identified as the primary aggressor. He was charged with Battery (DVA), and Obstruction by resisting arrest, and was transported to the Chatham County Detention Center, via my vehicle. Ms. Odewole gave me a plastic prescription bottle labeled as Divalproex, 500mg. containing multiple pills that were pinkish in color.

The witness, Rimnonka Kabore, an employee of the El Cheapo convenient store observed Mr. Ajibade place a blanket over Ms. Odewole's head, and resisted officers. A CRN card was issued to Ms. Odewole.
